

Helping a Fan Make it to the Super Bowl

Paul really likes his AUTOTHERM especially in this weather. He told me that last week he took some rich guy from Sugar Grove down to Soldier Field to pick up his Super Bowl tickets. These were lottery tickets that he won through being a season ticket holder and he had to have a certified check plus a drivers license to prove he was the owner of the tickets. There was a three hour wait in line standing in a non-heated area beneath the grandstand. This guy did not know this and had not brought a jacket. Paul loaned the guy his jacket and they did shifts to stand in line while it slowly snaked their way up to the ticket booth. In between shifts they were able to sit in Paul's Limo with the AUTOTHERM on keeping them nice and toasty without running the engine for 3 hours. Paul said the customer really appreciated the way the car was kept warm.
